Off-Campus Housing Units To Host Neighboring Students Wednesday

Approximately 60 supervised houses have been selected to serve as hosts to students from neighboring off-campus homes during "Host House Night" from 8 to 10 p.m. Wednesday.

The plan of the program is to let the students who live in off-campus housing enjoy more the social, educational and intellectual facilities of the university.

"Host House Night is only the beginning of a program of activities that will continue throughout the school year and, it is hoped, will involve the total off-campus student community," Anita Kuo, supervisor of off-campus housing, said.

The Housing Office, together with the householders, the Off-Campus Presidents Council and the Off-Campus

Resident Fellows Council, are planning the evening.

Invitations to guest houses will be issued Thursday and will be hand delivered by the invitation committee.

This is the first year for this kind of program.

A complete list of the Host Houses as well as a map pointing out the areas in which they are located will appear in tomorrow's Daily Egyptian.

Debaters To Compete At Bradley

SIU's forensic students are preparing for a full weekend of activity Friday and Saturday when 25 will compete in the 17th Annual Bradley Speech Tournament at Peoria and the varsity team will debate at Purdue University, LaFayette, Ind.

Southern will participate in debate, oratory, extemporaneous speaking, oral interpretation and discussion at Peoria. The varsity debate team of Winston Zoeckler and Patrick Micken of Carbondale, Janelle Schlimgen of Huron, S.D., and Jeff Barlow of Benton will compete at Purdue.

Marvin Kleinau of the SIU speech department, the forensic coach, said his team members have done well in meets up to this time.

Literature Critiques Sell 26,000 Copies

Nearly 26,000 copies of the 17 titles of the "Crosscurrent-Modern Critiques Series" published by the University Press have been sold through October, 1963, said Director Vernon Sternberg.

The series was inaugurated in the spring of 1962 with the publication of five titles. All of these literary criticisms of modern world literature have been edited by Harry T. Moore, research professor of English at SIU. Four have gone into second printings, the latest being Charles Shapiro's "Theodore Dreiser."

Sternberg said that when seven more Crosscurrents titles are published next March, the SIU Press will have passed the half-way mark in the series scheduled for 47 books.

Author Friend Of James Joyce To Talk To English Students

Students interested in James Joyce soon are to get a new look at the controversial novelist through a personal Joyce friend, authoress Carresse Crosby.

Mrs. Crosby, whose Black Sun Press in Paris published the works of Joyce, D. H. Lawrence, American poets Archibald MacLeish, Hart Crane and others, will speak to students in English and library classes on a visit to SIU later this month.

Herself the author of several books, Mrs. Crosby has been described as "one of the original great glamor

CHESS CLUB MEMBERS PONDER THEIR PLAYS

Only One Loss In 12 Games:

Saluki Chess Players Win Illinois University Title

SIU chess team won the Illinois University Championship title in play Saturday and Sunday with the teams from the University of Illinois and Western Illinois University.

Of the 12 games played by SIU's A team, only one loss was recorded. Team members won eight games and tied three, for an 8 1/2-2 1/2 finish.

girls of the Paris left bank" who knew the important literary figures there in the early years of this century.

Her own books include "Cross of Gold," "Graven Images," "Impossible Melodies," and "Painted Shores." Many consider her autobiography, "The Passionate Years," one of her finest works.

Harry T. Moore, research professor of English at Southern who was instrumental in arranging her visit, said Mrs. Crosby is expected to visit here Nov. 19-22.

Western Illinois University finished second with a 6 1/2-5 1/2 record, and the University of Illinois was third with a 4 1/2-7 1/2 record. SIU's B team was fourth at 3 1/2-7 1/2.

The first round saw SIU beat Western 3-1, with Frank Fleming, Owen Harris and Julius Haug winning. Jim Turner was beaten by Western's Peter Gawlinkski. Gawlinkski has a perfect tournament record of three victories.

SIU's meeting with Illinois resulted in a 3-1 victory for the host team. In the third round Western beat the University of Illinois 2 1/2-1 1/2.

Southern's B team lost to Western in its first match and drew its second with Illinois.

Novelist Postpones Visit To Southern

The scheduled visit of novelist Anais Nin on December 2, has been postponed until the first of the year, an Information Service spokesman said.

Rehabilitation vs. Punishment Is Theme Of 11-State Meeting

A week-long institute for parole board members from 11 states is under way at SIU.

It opened Sunday on a keynote of rehabilitation as expressed by Gov. Otto Kerner.

Too much of the public still thinks prisons are intended for punishment rather than rehabilitation, the governor said in addressing the opening meeting.

He said Illinois is now selecting prison staff members on a professional rather than on a political basis.

Prisons, the governor said, should allow inmates "to adjust to a law-abiding way of life, to increase their education and learn a trade."

Tickets On Sale For 'Gentlemen'

Ticket sales for individual seats for the adult performances of Moliere's rollicking farce "The Would-Be Gentleman" are now on sale at the Playhouse box office.

The play will run at the Playhouse Nov. 22-24 and Dec. 3-7. The play has spent the past month on a tour of over 25 communities in southern Illinois.

Children's performances of the play will be seen at the playhouse on the afternoons of December 2 to 5.

Playhouse box office hours are 10-11 a.m., and 3-4 p.m. Mail order requests should be mailed in early to insure reservations.

At each performance of the play there will be a different cast. The groups are alternating in order to give more students a chance to perform.

HISTORICAL DETECTIVES - Joe Mountjoy, Atlanta (Ill.) graduate student, is sawing the section in two, and Melvin Fowler (right) acting director of the Museum, will send the two halves to two different radiocarbon testing laboratories for dating analyses. Once a ceremonial pole in a central plaza of a prehistoric Indian village near Granite City on the Mississippi, the log - 10 feet long, a yard thick - was salvaged by the Illinois Archaeological Survey.

Radiocarbon Test:

Ceremonial Log May Establish Age Of Prehistoric Village

The age of a prehistoric Indian village uncovered by a crew of Illinois archaeologists at Mitchell Mound near Granite City may be determined by a three-foot bald cypress log.

The log, once used as a ceremonial pole in the village could tell whether the village is 1,400 years old or a mere thousand, SIU archaeologists say.

Cuttings from the log have been analyzed in two radiocarbon tests, but they don't agree. Surprisingly, the sample from the inner rings tested several centuries younger than the sample from the outer rings, when every schoolboy knows that a tree adds a ring for each year of its life.

To clear up the mystery, the Museum now has sawed a thick section out of the center of the log and is shipping half of the section to each of two different radiocarbon laboratories -- Kaman Instruments, Inc., at Fort Worth, Texas, and the University of Texas-- to have comparative analyses made of rings representing various stages of growth.

"We know there is some logical explanation why the previous tests showed the inner rings dated around 800-1100 A.D., while the outer rings dated 600-700 A.D.," Melvin Fowler, acting director of the Museum, said.

"It is possible that the outer portion of the log was contaminated by the swamp water in the well-like hole in which it was buried. The silt and decaying vegetation would possess its own radioactivity and the log could have absorbed some of it."

Fowler explained that the laboratories specializing in radiocarbon dating measure the residual amount of radioactivity in the carbon particles of an object.

The ceremonial log was found by salvage crews of the Illinois Archaeological Survey, directed by Fowler, at the Mitchell Mound near Granite City, Ill. This mound is one of several large concentrations of the Mississippian culture in the American Bottoms along the Mississippi River near East St. Louis.

Excavations in these mounds have been carried out for several years by field crews from Southern, the University of Illinois and the Illinois State Museum, operating a hairsbreadth ahead of bulldozers of highway contractors and industrial builders. Grants from the National Science Foundation and co-operation of the Illinois Highway Department and the U.S. Bureau of Roads have made the survey's salvage operations possible, Fowler said.

Annual UN Greeting Card Sale To Begin At SIU On Thursday

UNICEF greeting cards will go on sale Thursday in the University Center.

The cards are in a series of 21 designed by artists from nine countries. Each box of ten at $1.25, will bring help and hope to sick and hungry children in the underdeveloped parts of the world.

The United Nations Children's Fund, beneficiary of the cards sales, is currently assisting over 500 programs for needy children and mothers in 116 countries.

The sale of the cards is sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, a service fraternity at SIU. The Rev. Malcolm Gillespie, SIU Student Christian Foundation director, is president of the Southern Illinois Association for the United Nations.

The card designs are works of art donated by world famous artists to benefit the work of the United Nations International Emergency Childrens Fund.

Last year's sales on campus amounted to about $550.

Barghoorn Handcuffed By Reds, Mother Says

New Haven, Conn.—Yale University Prof. Frederick Barghoorn's mother said Monday he was handcuffed by Soviet police who arrested him, and while in captivity in Moscow was "treated like a jailbird."

The mother, who finally got to spend some time with her son after his return home Sunday, said he lost weight on Russian prison food and added: "I'm very elated" that he's back, even though he is much lighter than he was when he left here."

Barghoorn's mother said the Soviets tried to make him out a spy, but she declared:

"His 'unpardonable sin' was that he could speak Russian and that he could understand what the people said when he heard them speaking."

YALE CELEBRATES

As the Yale campus prepared a special celebration in honor of Barghoorn's return, the shy scholar secluded himself at his home.

Barghoorn answered some of his mail and caught up on some of the news since his arrest in Oct. 31 in Moscow on espionage charges. His listed telephone was disconnected, and he spent most of the day next door in his mother's apartment, where friends answered the telephone and the door.

The 52-year-old specialist in Soviet studies did not go to his own one-room efficiency apartment, piled with books and papers, to talk with an Associated Press reporter. The professor also said he did not expect to add any details at a later date to his statement made at a news conference Sunday night.

BAD MEMORY HELPED

Dressed in an open-neck blue shirt and blue trousers, Barghoorn, looking considerably more relaxed than he did when he arrived Sunday in the United States, made only one direct reference to his captivity.

He mentioned his bad memory for names and said, "but I guess that was a good thing in the situation I was in. They kept asking me if I knew this person and if I knew that person—and I couldn't remember any of the names."

Mrs. Barghoorn said her son told her that he was leaving his hotel in Moscow for a trip to Warsaw, Poland, when Soviet police arrested and handcuffed him.

"He was kept incommunicado all the time he was in jail," she said. "When he left the prison, two policemen took him to the airport. He didn't have any contact with any Americans."

400 Million-Ton Atomic Force On Tap, U.S. Warns Russians

New York -- The United States has let the Soviet Union know that it has 400 million tons of nuclear force on tap in Europe, ready to be used in whatever quantity needed.

The official word came Monday from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in a major policy speech understood to have been coordinated with the White House and State Department.

The timing and tenor of the prepared address to the Economic Club of New York made it obvious that this was a cold response to recent truculent talk by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

It was intended also as new reassurance for Allies concerned about speculation of U.S. troop withdrawal from Europe.

In the latest showdown on the Berlin autobahn, Khrushchev muttered menacingly about nuclear button-pushing. And there has been more Moscow growling about Soviet interests in Cuba.

The mighty nuclear potential—expressed in terms of TNT equivalent—in Europe is essentially in relatively small tactical weapons. It does not include the untold hundreds of millions of tons of TNT equivalent in missiles and bombs of the strategic forces, based in the United States, or in Polaris submarines deployed within range of Soviet targets.

BREAK SEEN IN DEADLOCK

Springfield, Ill.—Gov. Otto Kerner said Monday he is still confident that agreement will be reached on redistricting the Illinois House despite a current deadlock of the special reapportionment commission.

Kerner told a news conference that remapping is an "emotional issue and politics is involved in it."

The 10-member commission, which has hit an impasse over the number of districts that Chicago should receive, is facing a Dec. 14 deadline on producing a solution.

700 Guerrilla Foes Of Diem Rally To New Saigon Regime

Saigon, Viet Nam -- More than 700 non-Communist guerrillas who had been fighting President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime have rallied to South Viet Nam's new revolutionary government in the last 24 hours, American sources reported Monday.

The rebels belong to the Hoa Hao sect which Diem claimed he had crushed in 1956.

It was reliably reported that 1,200 Hoa Haos have decided to come over to the new government. Those who have

Fire Sweeps Resort, At Least 4 Die

Atlantic City, N.J.—Fire swept through a block of hotels and rooming houses near the famed Atlantic City Boardwalk Monday, killing at least four persons and leaving 19 missing.

Earlier police reports had 25 persons unaccounted for but Capt. Hubert Bourbon said a check of Atlantic City Hospital and persons involved dropped the number to 23. Then four bodies were recovered from the ruins of the Surfside Hotel, where the blaze started.

All the missing had been staying at the Surfside. Police and firemen probed the ruins after the fire was out and newsmen counted the bodies being carried from the debris.

The search continued for more possible victims of the blaze that destroyed five hotel buildings and a rooming house and damaged an apartment building before it was brought under control.

Fire also spread to three other buildings but was quickly extinguished.

Bourbon said police accounts showed 40 persons had been in the Surfside when the blaze broke out shortly after 4 a.m.

JOBS HIT RECORD HIGH

Chicago—Illinois non-farm jobs reached the highest October total—3,652,900—on record, John E. Cullerton, state director of labor, said Monday. Cullerton said this was 28,000 jobs more than the October 1962 number, the previous high.

October was the 24th consecutive month in which Illinois employment exceeded that for the same month of the previous year, Cullerton said.

surrendered already, including more than 30 officers, reportedly brought many heavy weapons and a large arsenal of small arms.

Negotiations between top Hoa Hao officers and government officials reportedly were completed successfully Saturday at Chao Phu, in An Giang province, 110 miles west of Saigon.

"Probably a good many U.S. advisers who had been led to believe all these years they were fighting the Viet Cong actually have been tangling with the Hoa Hao in that area," a U.S. official said.

The Hoa Hao is a quasi-religious military organization regarded as a Buddhist splinter group.

National Teacher Exams Set For Feb. 15 At Southern

Prospective teachers in this area will have an opportunity to take the national teacher examinations on Feb. 15, 1964, according to Warren Willis, assistant supervisor of testing, who will supervise the administration of the tests.

Applications blanks and bulletins of information describing registration procedures and containing representative test questions may be obtained from Willis or directly from the National Teacher Examination, Educational Testing Service, Princeton office, not later than Jan. 17, Willis said.

Scores on the national teacher examinations are used by a large number of school systems and teacher education institutions throughout the country as an aid in evaluating qualifications of prospective teachers that are measured by the tests, Willis said. The scores may also be useful to persons who are interested in discovering their own strengths and weaknesses with respect to such teacher qualifications measured by the tests, he added.

At the one-day testing session a candidate may take the common examinations which include tests in professional information, general culture, English expression, and non-verbal reasoning. In addition, each candidate may take one or two optional examinations which are designed to demonstrate mastery of subject matter in the fields in which the candidate is prepared.

Campus Chest Chairmen Picked

The Student Council, at its last meeting, took action in a variety of areas ranging from appointing co-chairmen for the Campus Chest drive to student claims against the University.

1. Approved appointment of James Dodd, Jean Cashion and James Brown as co-chairmen of Campus Chest.

2. Introduced a bill favoring expansion of the University's foreign language program to include credit classes in Japanese, Arabic, Persian, Korean and Swahili. The bill was sent to committee for study.

3. Voted down a bill to publicize federal and state regulations regarding the use of the U.S. flag in publicizing student meetings. This bill stemmed from a recent use of representations of the flag on posters at SIU. The council decided that such regulations are already sufficiently well publicized.

4. Introduced a bill to set up a Student Claims Committee with the authority to "suggest to the University resolutions of claims by students." The bill states that "often students have what they feel are real claims against the University both in academic credit and monetary transactions with no recourse but to accept the University decision as final."

Voigt Announces Newsletter On General Studies Program

John W. Voigt, executive director of the General Studies Program, said that beginning this month a General Studies Newsletter will be issued on "approximately a monthly basis."

"The newsletter will be issued as a means of improving understanding of the General Studies Program and to keep the faculty informed of new developments in the program," said Voigt.

The first issue of the newsletter gave a description of the General Studies program and listed the original and present President's committee. The newsletter announced the appointment of Amos Black, professor of mathematics, as executive assistant to Voigt. Black is in charge of all academic aspects of student administration.

Included in the first issue of the newsletter was the description of a student trial advisement program directed by Jack Graham, coordinator of Academic Advisement.

Guilty Plea To Beer Charges Brings Two Fines, Probation

The Office of Student Affairs placed two students on disciplinary probation through the winter quarter after they pleaded guilty to charges of illegal purchase of beer at a Colp tavern Oct. 31. Their case was heard in Williamson County Court.

The students, Richard B. Locke, 19, Glenview, and Gary E. Golub, 20, Elmhurst, appeared before Judge John Clayton, who fined Locke $75 and Golub $25. Locke admitted making the purchase, Golub was driver of the automobile they used to go to Colp. Golub will lose his driver privileges beginning with the winter quarter. Locke will be ineligible for driver privileges during the current school year.

SHOULD AULD ACQUAINTANCE AND JAZZ LIKE THAT

I am now an elderly gentleman, full of years and aches, but my thoughts keep ever turning to my undergraduate days. This is called "arrested development."

But I cannot stop the healing tide of nostalgia that washes over me as I recall those golden campus days, those ivy-covered buildings (actually, at my college, there was only ivy: no bricks), those pulse-tingling lectures on John Dryden and Cotton Mather, the many friends I made, the many deans I bit.

I know some of you are already dreading the day when you graduate and lose touch with all your merry classmates. It is my pleasant task today to assure you that it need not be so; all you have to do is join the Alumni Association and every year you will receive a bright, newsy, chatty bulletin, check-full of tidings about your old buddies.

Oh, what a red-letter day it is at my house, the day the Alumni Bulletin arrives! I cancel all my engagements, take the phone off the hook, dismiss my resident osteopath, put the cheetah outside, and settle down for an evening of pure pleasure with the Bulletin and (need I add?) a good supply of Marlboro Cigarettes.

Whenever I am having fun, a Marlboro makes the fun even more fun. That filter, that flavor, that yielding soft pack, that firm Flip Top box, never fails to heighten my pleasure whether I am playing Double Canfield or watching the radio or knitting an afghan or enjoying any other diverting pursuit you might name—except, of course, spear fishing. But then, how much spear fishing does one do in Clovis, New Mexico, where I live?

But I digress. Let us return to my Alumni Bulletin and the fascinating news about my old friends and classmates. I quote from the current issue:

"Well, fellow alums, it certainly has been a wing-dinger of a year for our old grads! Remember Mildred Cheddar and Harry Camembert, those crazy kids who always held hands in Econ II? Well, they're married now and living in Clovis, New Mexico, where Harry rents spear-fishing equipment, and Mildred has just given birth to a lovely 28-pound daughter, her second in four months. Nice going, Mildred and Harry!

"Remember Jethro Brie, the man we voted most likely to succeed? Well, old Jethro is still gathering laurels! Last week he was voted 'Motorman of the Year' by his fellow workers in the Duluth streetcar system. 'I owe it all to my brakeman,' said Jethro in a characteristically modest acceptance speech. Same old Jethro!

"Probably the most glamorous time had by any of us old alums was had by Francis Macomber last year. He went on a big game hunting safari all the way to Africa! We received many interesting post cards from Francis until he was, alas, accidentally shot and killed by his wife and white hunter. Tough luck, Francis!

"Wilametta 'Deadeye' Macomber, widow of the late beloved Francis Macomber, was married yesterday to Fred 'Sureshot' Sigafos, white hunter, in a simple double-ring ceremony in Nairobi. Many happy returns, Wilametta and Fred!

"Well, alums, that just about wraps it up for this year. Buy bonds!"

Old grads, new grads, undergrads, and non-grads all agree: that good Richmond tobacco recipe, that clean Selectate filter, have turned all fifty states of the Union into Marlboro Country. Won't you join the throng?

Council And 'Conning Profs'

Would the Student Council mistake a spinet piano for a baby grand?

We hope not, yet Council's ire over the "Conning the Profs" story exaggerates the importance of the incident considerably. We do not believe the Senators were as aroused over the incident as spectators at the Council meeting Thursday evening might have guessed they were. The incident does show, however, the extremes to which the Council is willing to go in exploiting its differences with the Egyptian.

Council's ire was roused by Thursday's Egyptian. It carried a feature article, compiled from campus interviews, on student techniques for improving grades. One incident in the Egyptian story undoubtedly came from a similar story in the Nov. 1 issue of Time magazine.

The offending quotation was given us by an SIU student, consciously or unconsciously quoting the Time article. It was turned in along with the other quotes and used in the final story.

No one at the Egyptian is proud that this particular quote slipped into our story. The mistake was ours. Errors are never acceptable in a newspaper, whose most important function is to inform its readers.

The Council chose to interpret the incident as bold-faced plagiarism. The Senators let us believe they credit the Egyptian with enough naivete to think we could quote from a national magazine without anyone being the wiser.

No one hides the fact that the basic idea for the conning story came from Time. It was not the first the Egyptian has based on a clever idea in a national publication, nor will it be the last.

For the conning story Egyptian reporters adapted a good idea to the campus scene. No one apologizes for that; localizing a theme of widespread interest is good journalism. Campus comments about the article--and interest in the aftermath--show the conning article was well-read indeed.

The Senators contend that the Egyptian's laxity in allowing the offending quotation to appear in print enforces their case for a Council-controlled insert in the Egyptian.

Embarrassing though this mistake was, we disagree. It is unlikely that someone without journalism training would have realized the local possibilities of the Time story. Assuming reporters on a Council insert did receive such an assignment, it is unlikely that they would be any more able to separate truth from tall tale than was the Daily Egyptian staffer involved in this incident.

If Council had been less indignant about the incident we would be more convinced their true concern is with the error rather than with the chance to push their quarrel with the Egyptian.

Nick Pasqual

What do you think of Student Council's claim that the Egyptian promotes student apathy?

It's not only wrong it's nasty!

We students have been apathetic for years before we even had heard of the Egyptian!

Letter To The Editor

This Serious Student Fears Professors Are Falling Behind In Their Homework

Motivation for writing this letter was supplied by the Nov. 13 article on the subtleties of getting good grades. I would like to comment on a related matter, but from a different and perhaps naive point of view--at least according to the basic message of the article.

Acknowledging that anyone venturing to write about this subject is suspected of radicalism, I ask of you nothing more than an open mind. My statements are drawn solely from personal experience and have nothing so formal as a survey to support them.

There is a tacit assumption by some faculty that students are "functionally illiterate." Why else would instructors come to class prepared only to regurgitate the textbook? The only mentionable conclusion one could draw is the assumption that students cannot read. There is the unmentionable possibility that regurgitating the textbook is much easier and requires much less effort and frustration than preparing a lecture to supplement the textbook.

Another result of the instructor's devoting all his energy to outlining textbooks for class presentation is a shortage of energy to spend following recent developments in his discipline. Perhaps the Egyptian could determine the percentage of faculty utilizing their library privileges.

Southern may have some "illiterate" students, but her sin is not helped by the faculty.

William A. Fenwick

It's Time To End Apathy

Last week I attended a meeting of the new Young Democrats Club. To my surprise there were only about 35 people there. It's hard to believe that in a school of approximately 13,000 present and future voters, only 35 are Democrats or only 35 Democrats had enough interest to come to a meeting. Whatever the case, the showing was poor.

We are the future leaders of society. Why don't we find out how our nation is run, so that we can step in and take part?

We're not teenagers anymore; it's time for us to inquire about our politics and know our candidates so that when we are able to vote we can cast a knowledgeable vote.

We must get out of our apathy and become citizens of the United States, not just inhabitants.

'Wheel Chair Student' Points Out Need For Many Improvements

I am one of SIU's many wheelchair students. Referring to the editorial in Thursday's Daily Egyptian ("Steep Ramp Could Put Students on the Skids"), I too feel a definite need for better campus wheelchair facilities.

This problem, however, is not confined to the steep ramp in front of Altgeld Hall. Not in the least! It is evident throughout the campus area.

Wheelchair facilities on campus are, to say the least, inadequate. There are plenty of ramps, yes, but most of them can't be utilized by wheelchair students without some help from passersby.

They are either too steep, or they don't have handrails, or the area at the bottom is too small. This type of facility is totally unfit for use by wheelchairs. It's unsafe, and one of these days some poor wheelchair student is going to be seriously injured on a ramp of this type.

And it's not just ramps! The campus is desperately in need of more bevelled curbs, so that wheelchairs have an easier time crossing streets.

I could go on with further needed improvements, but would it do any good? Let's get on the administration's back until necessary facilities are installed.

Kenneth Kroil

Poor Taste!

Your article entitled "SIU Students Report Devious Ways of Improving Grades," which appeared on the front page of the Nov. 13 issue, was rather amusing until I read the following paragraph, which I quote:

"Still another -- 'One excuse used by my friend to get out of taking a test at the proper time was that his roommate was going with a colored girl and they stayed up all night blockading the door to keep the boy's father from killing her.'"

Not only was this in extremely poor taste, but it made a very sour thing of the entire article.

IRVING DILLIARD

Chicago's American

Ike Forgets Bi-Partisan Aid

Just about everybody, it seems, is either reading Dwight D. Eisenhower's new collection of memoirs, "The White House Years," or is writing about it. To this reader, what the former President does not say is often as interesting and sometimes more important than what he does say.

He probably could now produce a book of the same length covering the same years and repeat little if any.

Granting this vastness of the material and the fact that the right of selection belongs to the author, still many readers will find the Eisenhower account sketchy, incomplete, too often one-sided and partisan.

Attacked by Bricker

Consider, for example, his report on the proposed constitutional amendment which the then Sen. John W. Bricker moved heaven and earth to put over. The Ohio Republican introduced his scheme to tie the hands of the President in the conduct of foreign affairs on the first day of the only Republican-controlled Congress in Eisenhower's eight years in the Presidency.

The general is right when he says that the Bricker amendment proposal "would have denigrated the status of a legitimate treaty." He is correct when he says that for months members of his administration--Nixon, Dulles, Humphrey, Brownell, Weeks, and others--met with Bricker and tried unsuccessfully to persuade Bricker to remove his monkey wrench.

He does not say, at least in the newspaper version, that only by the vote of a Democrat in the Senate was the President's skin saved on the final vote.

What gave the Eisenhower administration its victory was not the failure to muster the first vote for the Bricker-Knowland-Dirksen-George effort. It was the production of the 31st "no" vote by the Democrats. That crucial vote was cast by the late Sen. Harley L. Kilgore of West Virginia, so ill at the time that he was brought to the Senate chamber virtually on a stretcher. Since Sen. Kilgore died soon afterward, it would seem that Eisenhower might gratefully have mentioned the lawmaker whose vote made all the difference.

The McCarthy Episode

Another example is in the section that reports on the Eisenhower administration's relations with Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. The former President takes satisfaction in not having come to grips with the Wisconsin demagogue. By ignoring McCarthy, Eisenhower says he followed the wisest course in allowing him to destroy himself. Then he says that McCarthy was finished by the end of 1954 when he was condemned by the Senate, 67 to 22, and deprived of his chairmanship of the investigating committee.

But he does not say that the Republican Senators largely supported McCarthy on that vote while every Democrat present voted to condemn. Nor does he say that the only reason McCarthy was deprived of his chairmanship was that the country voted the Democrats into power in the November, 1954, congressional election.

If he will check the record carefully, Eisenhower will find that the Republicans in control of Congress, 1953-54, gave him a far rougher time than the Democrats. Wonder why he does not say so?

Last Shot At .500 Record:

SIU To Face Eagles Saturday Minus Services Of Jim Hart

SIU's hopes of winding up the football season with a balanced slate rest squarely on the final game against the North Texas State Eagles this weekend, after the Salukis bowed Saturday to Toledo, 14-0, for their fifth loss in nine starts.

Southern not only lost the game, but the services of its star sophomore quarterback, Jim Hart, Morton Grove, Ill., who had broken several passing marks in his first year with the Saluki varsity, received a severe knee injury early in the first quarter.

Hart was taken to Doctors' Hospital in Carbondale when the team returned Sunday and was scheduled for a thorough examination Monday. Members of the coaching staff indicated that surgery would likely be necessary, because Hart apparently doesn't have much stability at the injured joint.

Regular tackle Jack Langi, Woodbury, N. J. junior, picked up a possible shoulder separation and is probably through for the year. The sick list also numbers an assortment of other knee injuries, in addition to the usual bumps and bruises.

Toledo's crushing ground attack took its toll as the Rockets ground out touchdown drives of 54 and 94 yards for the win. The winners had things their own way when Hart was finished, as the Saluki attack failed to move consistently.

The Rockets plugged away for 307 yards on the ground, finding it so successful that they tried only six aeriels for 22 yards.

Senior Dave Harris tried to get Southern rolling when he took over for Hart, who had completed one of four passes for 13 yards. Harris managed to hit on four of 13 aeriels for a 72-yard total and made some good running gains, but it wasn't enough.

Southern drove to the Toledo

31 in the first quarter, but the offense sputtered there and Bobby Hight's field goal try from the 36 failed. The SIU defense four times stopped the Rocket attack cold in the first period, but they moved quickly for their first score by covering 64 yards in six plays at the start of the second period.

Late in the quarter, after an 18-yard run by Harris and a 26-yard Harris pass to Tom Massey had given Southern a first down on Toledo's four, SIU missed on another scoring try when Harris' fourth-down pass to Harry Bobbitt in the end zone was just a bit off target.

Toledo promptly marched right back to the SIU four, but was stopped by the halftime buzzer.

SIU Distance Star Finishes Seventh In Central Collegiate Meet At Chicago

Bill Cornell, SIU long-distance running star, scampered to a seventh-place finish in the Central Collegiate cross country meet held in Chicago during the past weekend.

Cornell made it to the finish of the four-mile course in a time of 19:26. His teammate, Brian Turner, came home 15th in the race.

Tops for the Salukis was John Yaeger, who managed to Harris hit Bobbitt with a 40-yard toss to open the third stanza. He saw Bonnie Shelton drop a pass in the end zone, then chose to run for 21 yards to the Toledo six, as SIU threatened again, but fumbled the ball away. Again, the Rockets picked on a Saluki miscue to pound out a 94-yard touchdown march.

Southern's "walking wounded" defensive corps made the Rockets work for the tally, holding a stout line for four downs before the winners scored on a four-yard pass.

Head Coach Carmen Piccone will have to fill Hart's shoes in practice this week. He can choose between Harris, or three sophomores, Doug Mougey, Norm Meyers or Mike McGinnis.

place third in the freshman division of the race, turning the course in 15:11 for the three miles.

The University of Kansas took the team title with 39 points in the varsity competition. Notre Dame, Miami, Western Michigan, Bowling Green of Ohio and Northwestern followed in that order.

Southern didn't send a full team to compete in the meet.

300 High School Girls At Basketball Clinic

More than 300 high school girls from 30 schools are expected to attend a Basketball Clinic to be held at SIU Saturday, according to Charlotte West, instructor in women's physical education and clinic general chairman.

Each year the Women's Professional Club (physical education majors) holds a clinic in some phase of physical education or recreation. For the past two years, folk dancing was the subject. In 1959 and 1960 volleyball was emphasized.

"Since women's basketball rules have changed greatly in recent years," Miss West said, "this sport was selected to be taught and coached this year. Basketball was last considered at the 1957 and 1958 clinics."

Area schools which have signed up for the clinic include Anna-Jonesboro, Cairo, Carbondale Community, Dahlgren, DuQuoin, Flora, Freeburg, Harrisburg, Herrin, Marion, Margeutte High School at Alton, Mascoutah, McLeansboro, Murphysboro.

Also Nashville, New Athens, North Gallatin High School at Ridgway, Pinckneyville, Pope County Community High School at Golconda, Sumner High School at Cairo, Tammis, Thebes, Trico at Campbell Hill, Waterloo, West Frankfort, La Grove High School at Farina, East St. Louis, Bethalto, Carterville and Mount Vernon.

TP's Adopted Indian Orphan To Receive 'Gambling' Proceeds

Next quarter, Thompson Point will sponsor a Casino Party on behalf of P. T. Santhamma, an orphan child in India TP residents have "adopted."

The event, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 22, 1964, as the second Casino Party sponsored by Thompson Point. At the first party, students fought play money and "gambled" it away. The proceeds from this event were sent to India, where they were used to sponsor Santhamma.

Santhamma, who is now almost six years old, lives in he state of Kerala in South India. She is now a member of a very large, but poor, Indian family who showed her charity by adopting her.

The father operates a small stationery shop, but his earnings are not enough to support his large family. Most of the time, there is a shortage of food.

Santhamma has asked that students at SIU write to her. Her mailing address is as follows: P. T. Santhamma, Adoption #31369, Home #3, Bethel Asram Community School, c/o Sister Rachel

SIU Student Hurt In Auto Accident

An SIU student, Warren Kepp, 21, injured in an automobile accident Saturday night in Carbondale, was released from the Carbondale Clinic Monday afternoon.

Kepp, who lives at 516 S. Poplar St., suffered head lacerations. Barbara Walter, 17, Anna, a companion, was treated and released by the hospital.

The accident occurred in the 700 block of East Main Street and involved an automobile driven by Larry Johnson, 608 S. Marion St., also an SIU student.

Patrolman Donald Johnson said Kepp was ticketed for reckless driving.

Nov. 30 Against Indiana:

At Least Two Sophs Will Play In Saluki Basketball Opener

Apparently keeping in vogue with the trend set by a youthful SIU football team this year, the Saluki basketball squad expects to find at least two sophomores in the starting lineup on opening night at Indiana University.

Opening against the Big Ten powerhouse Hoosiers on Nov. 30 at Bloomington, Southern will also have one junior and two seniors in the starting quintet. It will be the first game of a 20-game schedule.

Coach Jack Hartman, aiming for his second successful season in two years at SIU (he was 20-10 last year), has installed 6-6 Lloyd Stovall, Memphis, Tenn., and 6-3 Boyd O'Neal, Philadelphia, in his tentative starting lineup for Indiana. They'll team up with veterans Joe Ramsey, Sandoval junior, and seniors Paul Henry, Indianapolis, and Eldon Bigham, Pinckneyville.

Ramsey, a 6-5 forward, stepped into the picture late last season after varsity center Lou Williams was ruled ineligible for tournament play. The sharp-shooting Ramsey exploded with a scoring binge in those late games and appears to have picked up this season where he left off.

Stovall will put 190 pounds of workhorse strength in the center position, and O'Neal will add 195 at a supporting forward slot. Their heft and abilities as excellent jumpers are expected to provide some solid rebounding strength, but they'll need some experience, as most sophomores do.

Scandinavian Trip Will Be Discussed

"A Scandinavian Safari" will be Prof. Arthur E. Lean's topic at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Morris Library Auditorium when Phi Delta Theta is hostess to Phi Delta Kappa and Kappa Delta Pi.

He is one of 22 American educators who attended a month-long seminar on comparative education sponsored by the Danish Institute this past summer. The group met for 2 1/2 weeks of study with

The other Saluki guard, Bigham, has two invaluable years of experience and Hartman can count on him to take over the floor play at any time. Bigham is receiving a lot of pressure from sophomore George McNeill, St. Louis, one of the best of the current second-team reserves.

Ed Searcy, Indianapolis, Duane Warning, Frankfort, Thurman Brooks, Memphis and Eddie Blythe, Carbondale, are others expected to make the traveling squad.

During the next 2 1/2 weeks they traveled throughout Sweden, Norway and Finland visiting schools. A final session was held in Copenhagen to evaluate the month's study.

Lean has long been active in comparative education. He is closely associated with the program in international development at SIU. He is a member of the Comparative Education Society.

4 Animals Now 'Fair Game' In Illinois Hunting Season

The hunting season for raccoon, opossum, skunk and weasel began at noon on Nov. 15 and will close at noon on Jan. 31, state Conservation Department officials have announced.

Hunting of these game animals extends throughout the state.

Trapping season for raccoon, opossum, skunk, weasel, mink and muskrat is scheduled to open in the Northern Conservation Zone at noon on Nov. 20, closing at noon on Dec. 31.

In the Southern Conservation Zone, the trapping season for these same animals opens at noon on Nov. 25 and closes at noon on Jan. 10.

Beaver trapping season commences in the Northern Zone at noon on Nov. 20 and continues until noon on March 31. Beaver may be trapped in the Southern Zone from noon on Nov. 25 until noon March 1.

Robert Mueller Named To Panel

Robert Mueller, chairman of the Music Department, has been asked to serve on a National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education examining committee at Indiana State College, Terre Haute. The committee will meet Nov. 17-20.

During the examination period he will represent the National Association of Schools of Music and will be a member of a team headed by Dr. Charles M. Allen of the University of Illinois.

NCATE has recently been visiting various educational institutions for the purpose of re-evaluating programs in the preparation of elementary and secondary teachers. A music representative is usually included in the examining committee personnel.

Gray and red fox may be hunted or trapped at any time of the year. Hunters should be certain that they have a valid hunting or trapping license before taking foxes.

Calhoun, Jersey, Madison, Bond, Fayette, Effingham, Jasper, Crawford, and all counties south of this line are in the Southern Zone.

School Planned For Towboat Chief Engineers

The Transportation Institute will sponsor a school for towboat chief engineers in February, 1964, according to an announcement by Alexander R. MacMillan, director of the institute. The school will be open for a week, starting February 24.

The school has been planned to meet the demand for an educational program that will supplement the personal capabilities of already proficient men who move modern towboats over waterways. The need for such a school has arisen as the result of the spectacular progress and growth of the barge and towing industry in this country.

The curriculum has been prepared by an advisory group composed of practical educators and experienced river men.

Designed for you, forever

This is the look college women adore...styling as timeless as love itself, yet with a knowing contemporary flair that makes it very much "today."

It's the kind of look we've designed into Desert Star... newest of the famous Artcarved engagement rings. Like all Artcarved rings, it's styled to stay beautiful... guaranteed in writing for permanent value. See new Desert Star now at any Artcarved jeweler listed here. It's designed for you.
